Trinity Players are pleased to announce their next production

Dr David Mortimore is about to address a neurologist's convention, which will probably earn him a knighthood.

Not the time then for an old flame to arrive and announce that their liaison resulted in a son who is in the building anxious to meet his father. David sees this as catastrophic not only for his medical reputation and of course his wife.

A situation which leads him to frantic action.

At the Academy Theatre, Birdwell
